“ I remember when grandpa was picking me up from the bus station in Seattle. On the way to Seattle the bus I was on wrecked on Stevens Pass. Needless to say, my bus was delayed by several hours. The people at the bus station kept telling him that my bus already came in. He told them that he didn't believe them and that he wasn't leaving without me. I finally showed up after midnight at the bus station and there was grandpa still waiting for me.

“ There was never a doubt that my dad would come home after work. Often with a surprise from his lunch box. He was a constant in my life. I can remember sitting on his lap watching Frosty the snowman. I felt so safe and warm. Thank you Dad for setting the bar high. I'll miss you.

“ I was just telling a friend yesterday about Mom and Dad, riding in the pickup and Dad and I debating, and Mom getting nervous, it was such a rush. I also remember going to see Rambo with Dad and when we picked out the Rambo knife. I also remember cheese and crackers.
I miss you Dad.....I hope your next adventure is a fine one!!!!!!
