March 8, 1958 - September 27, 2010

Jill Lynn Zacher, 52, of Wenatchee, WA, passed away at home on Monday, September 27, 2010, following a sudden illness. She was born on March 8, 1958, in Detroit, MI. The oldest child of Ed and Cheta Stewart, Jill spent her youth moving with her family throughout the U.S. and northern Europe, while her father was in the U.S. Army. She earned her high school diploma in Holland, before the family returned to settle in Lakewood, WA in 1977. After moving to Wenatchee for work, she met the love of her life, Timothy "Tim" Zacher. Jill and Tim were married on October 9, 1990, in Wenatchee, where they made their home together and raised a daughter, Trina and a son, Tye. Over the years, she worked outside the home in the fruit industry, including the family orchards, and also as a caregiver. She was a former member of the Wenatchee Eagles, Aerie #204. She loved to do a variety of crafts, including sewing, crocheting, scrapbooking and beading, and took pride in hand-making many gifts for family and friends. She also enjoyed camping, fishing and helping to raise a small herd of Chinese Crested Hairless dogs. Above all, she loved her family and especially loved to lavish attention on her grandson, Tanner.
