“ My memories of Keith in college were about a guy who always had a plan(or a trick) for someone. One morning at 3am he woke up his room mate with eggs and bacon frying and told him it is time for class. His room mate filled up and then found out how early it was and of course couldnt go back to sleep. Another time at the stroke of midnight he waved his checkered flag in front of a dozen cars right next to our dorm for a midnight drag race. Our dorm mother of course was steaming, So we all missed Keith when he left school. I would have loved to be in his math class to see what was next. Our condolences to a great guy. Stan Vandersall
