“ Happy Birthday Daddy. I miss your handsome face so much. I wish I could just have one more day with you. I'd listen to everything you had to tell me. I miss the jokes you told. I miss the sound of your voice, telling me I love you. I'd hug you so tight and never let go if I ever got the chance. But unfortunately I can't, so all I can do is remember how it used to when you were here. I talk about you everyday. I know you're gone now, but I'll be damned if I let your memory be forgotten Dad! I love you Daddy. I hope you're happy, young again, full of life, living life, that you're loved and with everyone that you needed in your life again. Until next time Dad I love you please know that.
Love your baby girl Crystal.

“ Kenneth was my father. He was a loving man with a sense of humor. He always had a gift of being the glue that held everyone together when they're life would fall apart. He was not only my father, but he was best friend, he was life. Not a day goes by still where I don't break down and cry.... Dad I hope you're with Mom and finally out of pain. I miss you so much. I love you. ~Crystal Fulton
