“ Margaret was always a bright light in long, hard days. She had a beautiful spirit and I will always think of her as a constant inspiration during my breast cancer journey. I will never forget her.

“ Margaret was always smiling, happy and positive! She was an excellent care giver at Central Washington Hospital! Patients and staff loved her.

“ I have known Margaret for over 23 years, but unfortunately we fell out of touch before her cancer returned. My two favorite memories of Margaret are when we worked together on TCU as the lone nurse and CNA for an almost full unit as other staff fell ill from food poisoning in the middle of the shift and had to go home with no other staff available. We worked together like a well oiled machine!! The other memory is when she came to me during a shift and told me she had a huge lump on her breast and wanted me to feel it. We were at the nurses station and I declined. She grabbed my hand and put it under her uniform top—yes, it was a very large lump!! Margaret always said “I love you” when she left a conversation. I loved her and she will never be forgotten. I’m sure there was a special spot in heaven for her. My condolences to her family and friends!!
