“ I remember, vividly, when Raul came to us at Skill Source. Young and full of mischief. It was a pleasure to watch him learn and grow into the fine man that he became. Kind, smart, and with goals of being a teacher. I saw him not long ago in his car next to mine - we rolled down our windows and chatted. And if I ever ran into him anywhere else, he always hugged me. He was a wonderful soul and his passing truly hit our staff at SLC hard. The tears flowed for a fine man, lost in his prime. We send so much love to his family and friends. It was our pleasure to have known him.

“ I remember the first day Raul started at Skillsource he came into class acting all chest puff out, rough around the edges with a brick hard exterior. Within weeks he let those walls down slowly and became a great person to work with. When I would tease him for something he did, I would ask him "are you going to hit me?" It was a joke between just him and I. I am going to miss that smile. He is one of the true success stories, graduating high school, working and going onto WVC. He was loved!
